Facilitator: Laurie Stoveken

Black Swan event or not COVID-19 has put an exclamation mark on the importance of managing supply chain risk and disruption. No business has been left unscathed, exposing vulnerabilities in material supply along with process inefficiencies and yet during these difficult times we have also witnessed the best of what strategic supplier partnerships truly look like in action.

Agenda

- 12:00 PM Moderator event introduction and collaboration platform overview
- 12:05 PM Facilitator welcome members, guests, & panel introduction
- 12:15 PM Panel Discussion

COVID-19: Managing through supply chain risk & disruption

- o What Supply Chain challenges did you experience this year?
- o How have you responded to those challenges?

Looking ahead: Rethink & Transform

- o What have you learned over for the past seven months and how could CI managers help your rethink your supply chain?
- o How can we better prepare students for a career in supply chain?
